

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

M. Ya'kub Aiyub Kadir is a lecturer of law at Syiah Kuala University, Indonesia. He is currently a Ph.D. candidate at Anglia Ruskin University. He obtained his masters degree from Oxford Brookes University, UK. Prior to joining Syiah Kuala University, Akadir was actively involved in humanitarian work in several agencies as a legal development manager at the Rehabilitation and Reconstruction Agency for Aceh and Nias, and as a researcher at the Center for Peace and Conflict Resolution (CPCRS) Unsyiah-Aceh. His research focuses on public international law, international human rights law, international investment law, self-determination, resource nationalism and Indonesian legal system. He may be contacted at m.yakub.akadir@unsyiah.ac.id.

Ping Yi is an Associate Professor at Peking University Law School. Her research interests include the law of war, and the history and theory of international law. She obtained an LL.B. from Peking University Law School, and LL.M. & LL.D. degrees from the University of Tokyo Graduate School for Law and Politics. Dr. Yi was a Research Fellow at the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science in 2007-09. She serves as the Chief Editor of Peking University International and Comparative Law Review, and a Senior Adviser in the Co-ordination of the Forum for International Criminal and Humanitarian Law. She is also a Board Member of the Chinese Society of International Law, and an Executive Board Member of the China Institute for Marine Affairs. She may be contacted at: yiping@pku.edu.cn.

Sangkul Kim is Research Fellow at the Centre for International Law Research and Policy (CILRAP) and Lecturer at Korea University College of Law. He worked as an Associate Legal Adviser at the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court (2004-08). At the Office of the Prosecutor, he served as a member of Legal Advisory Section, working on Lubanga, Bemba, Katanga and Ngudjolo trials. After receiving his LL.B. from Korea

University, he continued to study international law at Georgetown University Law Center where he was awarded an LL.M. and S.J.D. His doctoral dissertation titled, “A Collective Theory of Genocidal Intent,” will be published as a book in 2016 by the T.M.C. Asser Press in its International Criminal Justice Series. Since 2009, Dr. Kim has been involved in outreach activities with the ICC Legal Tools and served as a member of the Editorial Board of the FICHL Publication Series. He may be contacted at: sangkul.kim@gmail.com.

Mohd Hazmi Mohd Rusli is a Senior Lecturer of Law of the Sea and Public International Law at Syariah and Law at Universiti Sains Islam Malaysia (International Islamic University of Malaysia: IIUM). He is also a visiting professor at the Far Eastern Federal University School of Law, Vladivostok, Russia. Hazmi was awarded an LL.B. and MCL from IIUM. He went on to obtain his Ph.D. from the Australian National Centre for Ocean

Resources and Security (ANCORS) at the University of Wollongong, Australia. His research focuses on public international law, law of the sea and international relations, particularly in the Asia-Pacific region. He was called to the Malaysian BAR in 2007. Today, Hazmi is a research associate at the Asia-African Legal Consultative Organization (AALCO), New Delhi, India, as well as a research fellow at the Institute of Oceanography and Environment (INOS) at the University Malaysia Terengganu, Malaysia. He may be contacted at: mhbm027@uowmail.edu.au.

Roman Dremluiga is an Associate Professor of international law and Vice Dean for development at the Far Eastern Federal University School of Law, Vladivostok, Russia. His research focuses on Law of the Sea in general, and the legal regime of the Arctic Ocean in particular. His first interest in legal research was devoted to cyber law regarding cyber crimes which was the theme of his Ph.D. thesis. Dr. Dremluiga has been working for the Far Eastern Federal University since 2003. He also has advanced degrees in computer science and applied mathematics. He may be contacted at: dreamluck@yandex.ru.

Wan Izatul Asma Wan Talaat is a Law Professor at the Institute of Oceanography and Environment at Universiti Malaysia Terengganu and the designate head of the Ocean Governance Special Interest Group. Her research projects have focused primarily on environmental governance. Dr. Talaat is currently researching the governance of marine environment, and is involved in the national task forces in turtle conservation as well as deep seabed mining legal frameworks. She was elected as a member of the IUCN World Commission on Environmental Law in 2014. Dr. Talaat is also a member of the Environmental Law Network International (ELNI). She may be contacted at: wia@umt.edu.my.

Haifeng Deng is an Associate Professor at Tsinghua University School of Law. He currently serves as the vice director of the Center for Environmental, Natural Resource & Energy Law and the director of the Legal Affair Office at Tsinghua University. He earned his LL.B. LL.M. and Ph.D. at Heilongjiang University and Tsinghua University Law Schools, respectively. His research interests include environmental law and international energy law. Dr. Deng is a member of the major environmental law organizations such as the Chinese Society of Environment and Resources Law (Standing Director). He has published many books and articles on environmental protection and climate change issues, such as China's Role and Contribution in the Global Governance of Climate Change at 8:6 JOURNAL OF WORLD ENERGY LAW & BUSINESS (2015). He may be contacted at: denghf@tsinghua.edu.cn.

Chiyuan Chen is currently a researcher at the Center for Environmental, Natural Resource and Energy Law, Tsinghua University. Chiyuan received his LL.B. and LL.M at Tsinghua University. His research focuses on the international climate regime, and petroleum and natural gas law. He may be contacted at: chency14@mails.tsinghua.edu.cn.

Mahmud Zuhdi Mohd Nor is an Associate Professor at the Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (UKM), where he teaches Public International Law and Cultural Heritage Law as well as supervising full-time research and doctoral candidates in these areas. He is also Guest Lecturer in the Department of Science and Technology at UKM, teaching Marine Law and Policy for the Marine Sciences Program (2013-Present). Apart from the academic role, he was the Law School's Head of Industry and Community Relations (2009-2013) and is currently the Deputy Legal Advisor at the Office of Legal Advisor and Integrity of UKM, a member of the Malaysian Bar Advocates & Solicitors Disciplinary Committee (2007-Present), and an Accredited Mediator (2015). Mahmud was awarded an LL.B. (Hons) from the International Islamic University Malaysia, LL.M. from University of Malaya, and Ph.D in Law from University of Edinburgh. He may be contacted at: zuhdi@ukm.edu.my.

Anowar Zahid is a Senior Lecture at the School of Law, Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia-UKM (National University of Malaysia). Presently, Dr Zahid is the Director of the Centre for International Law and Siyar (CILAS). He is an advisor to FOCAL Research Consultants Ltd, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada, and Loyal Law Firm, Beijing, China, and Green i Financial Technology Limited (GiFT), Malaysia. Dr. Zahid is also a member of the Editorial Board of ASIAN SOCIAL SCIENCES (Journal), Canada. He received his LL.B. (Hon.), LL.M. degrees from the University of Dhaka (Bangladesh), LL.M. in business law from Dalhousie University (Canada), and Ph.D. from the University of Manchester (UK). His teaching and research interests focus on International, Business and Islamic Law. Dr. Zahid has widely published in various internationally acclaimed journals. He may be contacted at: anowar_zahid@ukm.my.

Benjamin K. Wagner is an American attorney with more than 20 years' experience in the Asia-Pacific region. Mr. Wagner earned his Juris Doctor at the William S. Richardson School of Law at the University of Hawaii. He is currently a visiting professor with the University of Business and International Studies in Geneva. He was previously an associate professor at Kyung Hee University Law School in Seoul, Korea. Mr. Wagner is an international human rights advocate. He has litigated cases before the United Nations Human Rights Committee and the United Nations Committee for the Elimination of Racial Discrimination. He may be contacted at: ben.k.wagner@gmail.com.

Xinjun Zhang is an Associate Professor of Public International Law at Tsinghua University, Beijing, China. His research interests include the Law of the Sea, International Environmental Law, Non-proliferation Law, and the Law of Treaties. Dr. Zhang has published many articles and books including: Diaoyu/Senkaku Dilemma: to Be or not to Be (2014); The ITLOS Judgment in the Bay of Bengal Case between Bangladesh and Myanmar (2013); Intentional Ambiguity and the Rule of Interpretation in Auto-interpretation: the case of “inalienable right” in NPT Article IV (2009). He is the Executive Director of the Center for the Law of the Sea Study in Tsinghua Law School. He may be contacted at: zxinjun@tsinghua.edu.cn.

Joel Browning is currently a J.D. candidate finishing his second year at the University of Utah S.J. Quinney College of Law. He holds an M.A. in Korean studies from Seoul National University Graduate School of International Studies and a B.A. in Psychology and Asian studies from Weber State University. Joel lived and worked in Korea for 13 years; including three years of graduate research at Seoul National University, five years in the international and regulatory division at Asiana Airlines, and a summer clerkship with the law group Kim & Chang. He is interested in the practice areas of international investment, international finance, and international mediation and arbitration. He may be contacted at: joel.browning@law.utah.edu.