

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Sung Pil Park is the Head Professor of Master of Intellectual Property Program at the Korea Advanced Institute of Science and Technology (KAIST). Professor Park was awarded LL.M. and JSD from Northwestern University, and LL.B. and M.A. (Economics) from Seoul National University. He is also a licensed lawyer in the State of Michigan of the US. As a legal professional, he has developed a unique interest in the intellectual capital management (“ICM”), an emerging interdisciplinary field of research. ICM requires integration of legal, economic, and managerial knowledge to utilize the most significant factor for production today, the ‘intangible assets.’ He teaches intellectual property law and ICM courses. Dr. Park also serves as university counsel at KAIST. He is an expert advisor of Presidential Council on Intellectual Property. Professor Park was a corporate legal/IP counsel for B&L Biotech, Inc., a dental device company based in the US and Korea. He may be contacted at: sppark@kaist.ac.kr

Lin Zhang is Professor of Law at Fujian Normal University School of Law and Adjunct Professor at Korea University School of Law. He studied law at Shandong University of Science and Technology (LL.B.) and then obtained his Ph.D. degree from the University of Hong Kong in 2010. Dr. Zhang has been also practicing law as a PRC qualified attorney since 2008. For the past five years, he has published two monographs in English regarding venture capital. Also, a number of his articles were published by globally recognized journals including Corporate Governance of Chinese State-controlled Listed Companies: a Revisit through the Lens of Venture Capital at 15 EUROPEAN BUSINESS ORGANIZATION LAW REVIEW (2014) and The Potential Rise of Hostile Takeovers in China: Efficiency, Politics and Law, at 12 CHINA: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL (2014). His research interests are primarily on business law, Chinese law, and international economic law. He can be contacted at: linzhang@korea.ac.kr

Keisuke Takeshita is an Associate Professor of Private International Law at Graduate School of Law of Hitotsubashi University in Japan. He is a supervising associate editor of JAPANESE YEARBOOK OF INTERNATIONAL LAW (JYIL) published by the International Law Association (ILA)-Japan Branch. Professor Takeshita is also a member of the delegation of the Japanese Government to the Hague Conference on Private International Law on the Judgments Project. His research focuses on the traditional theories of private international law and its current development. Professor Takeshita is also interested in the law of international civil procedure. He may be contacted at: kei.takeshita@r.hit-u.ac.jp

Tsung-Sheng Liao is an Associate Professor of International Law at the Law Department of the National Chung Cheng University, Taiwan. He earned his LL.M. and S.J.D. degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison Law School, the US. His research focuses on international environmental law, climate change law and policy, international human rights law, strategic environmental assessment law, and carbon capture and storage regulations. He has participated in many national-level research projects granted by the Ministry of Science and Technology of Taiwan in the field of climate change law, climate change and human rights, and carbon capture and storage regulations. Professor Liao is the co-author of CONCEPTUAL STRATEGIES OF CARBON CAPTURE AND STORAGE REGULATORY FRAMEWORK IN TAIWAN (2012). He has also published over 20 articles with regard to climate change issues. He has also been invited to present scholarly papers in different countries, such as Bahrain, Canada, China, Japan, Korea, Singapore, Thailand, the US, Vietnam, etc. He may be contacted at: lawtsl@ccu.edu.tw

Jinyuan Su is a Professor of International Law at Xi'an Jiaotong University School of Law, China. Prof. Su holds B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. (International Law) from Xi'an Jiaotong University. He was an Erin J.C. Arsenaault Fellow at the McGill University's Institute of Air and Space Law (2014-2015), a visiting research fellow at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law, University of Cambridge (2009-2010), and a visiting scholar at School of Law, King's College London (2008-2009). Prof. Su's research interests lie in outer space law, the law of the sea, and international aviation law. He published many articles at leading international law journals. Professor Su is one of the core experts for the project of Manual on International Law Applicable to Military Uses of Outer Space, a member of Governance Group of the Space Security Index, a lead drafter for the McGill project of Global Space Governance, and a member (2016-2018) of the Global Future Council on Space Technologies of the World Economic Forum. He may be contacted at: jinyuan.su@hotmail.com

Jonathan Liljeblad is a Senior Lecturer in the Law School of the Swinburne University of Technology in Melbourne, Australia. He received a Ph.D. and J.D. from the University of Southern California. Jonathan also studied civil engineering and applied science at California Institute of Technology (B.S.) and the University of Washington (M.S.). He authored books and academic articles in internationally referred journals including Understanding the Complexities of Civil Disobedience for Cyberspace Protests in the Case of Aaron Swartz, 42 RUTGERS COMPUTER & TECHNOLOGY JOURNAL (2016). Jonathan is editor-in-chief of INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF RURAL LAW & POLICY. His research interests are in international law, human rights, and environmental issues. Jonathan is currently engaged in field research in Southeast Asia. He may be contacted at: jliljeblad@swin.edu.au

Xiaoyi Zhang is an associate researcher in China Institute for Marine Affairs (CIMA) of the State Oceanic Administration and a research fellow in Collaborative Innovation Center for Territorial Sovereignty and Maritime Rights. Dr. Zhang also serves as a legal advisor of the Chinese delegation on annual informal consultations on the law of the sea. She obtained her LL.M. from Indiana University's Maurer School of Law, the US and Ph.D. on the law of the sea from China University of Political Science and Law, Beijing, China. Her research focuses on law of the sea, international arbitration, and international environmental law. She may be contacted at: zhangxiaoyi@cima.gov.cn

Yen Chiang Chang holds LL.M. (National Taiwan Ocean University) and Ph.D. (University of Dundee, UK). After having served as a legal enforcement officer with the Taiwanese Coast Guard, he accepted a research position at the Centre for Marine Policy Studies, Sun Yat-Sen University, Taiwan. In August 2007, he was involved in a European project, where he was primarily concerned with promoting and facilitating sustainable port based development and distribution. In 2009, Dr. Chang was appointed at the Shanghai Maritime University as an associate professor. In 2010, he joined School of Law at Shandong University and subsequently became a full professor in 2012. His current research focuses on legal governance framework regarding the exploration of marine renewable energy and dispute settlement mechanism. He may be contacted at: ycchang@sdu.edu.cn

Michael Sheng-ti Gau, LL.M. (Cambridge/London) and Ph.D. (Leiden), has been teaching at the Institute of Law of the Sea of National Taiwan Ocean University. Dr. Gau is a Member of the Board for the Aviation Safety Council, an independent aircraft accident investigation agency at the cabinet level. He worked at the CAA in Taiwan and China Airlines on legal/international affairs. Dr. Gau advised the Ministry of the Interior, Fishery Agency of Council of Agriculture, Ministry of Economics, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs on law of the sea matters, negotiations in ICCAT, SPRFMO and WCPFC, WTO fishery subsidies negotiations, Taiwan's participation in ICAO, OIE, etc. Dr. Gau is the National Administrator for the Taiwan Regional Round of the Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition. Born in 1963, Dr. Gau is married and lived by the mouth of Dan-Shwei River in Taipei. He may be contacted at: mikegau97@msn.com

Yasir Gokce is a former Turkish diplomat served in the US, Egypt, Uzbekistan and Vietnam. As a graduate of Bilkent University (LL.B.), he earned his LL.M. and M.P.A. at Ankara University and Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, respectively. Before joining the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Turkey, Yasir practiced law at a leading law office in Ankara. In the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, he worked at the departments mainly dealing with legal affairs, representing his country before courts, producing arguments in cases filed against Turkey and conducting research on international law. Yasir's research focus is on State immunity, the use of force, application of international law to cyber space, and the EU law. He has published several articles and book chapters on the aforesaid topics. Yasir also took part in the International Human Rights Clinic of Harvard Law School, particularly aiming to produce an advocacy strategy to prosecute the atrocity crimes perpetrated in Colombia. He may be contacted at: gokceyasir@gmail.com