

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Young-Yik Rhim is the founder, Chief Executive Officer and general counsel at Intellicon Metalab. He has pioneered the field of Computational Law and the Legal-Tech in Korea. Currently, Rhim serves as a Presidential Committee Member on the Fourth Industrial Revolution in the Korean Government. Also, he is an Adjunct Professor of Mass Communication and Public Relation at Konkuk University, Seoul, Korea teaching several graduate courses including Legal A.I., Computational Law, Intellectual Property, etc. He received his B.S. in Biological Sciences from Seoul National University and also studied Mathematics, Physics and Electrical Engineering. He developed the first Legal A.I. system in Korea (Intelligent Legal Information System or i-LIS), which won the Competition on Legal Information Extraction/Entailment (COLIEE) two consecutive years (2016-2017). He has published several books and articles, and his current research is in Meta-Learning, Explainable AI(XAI) and Computational law. He may be contacted at: ceo@intellicon.co.kr

KyungBae Park is a researcher at Intellicon MetaLab. He received his M.S. in Information Technology & Management at University of Texas at Dallas and holds Ph.D. from Kyungpook National University. His research areas include Machine Learning, Natural Language Processing and Computational Law. He may be contacted at: KBP@intellicon.co.kr

Lei Zhang is a WTO Chair Holder selected by the World Trade Organization (WTO), the Dean of the School of WTO Research and Education of Shanghai University of International Business and Economics (SUIBE), the Director of Shanghai Center for Global Trade and Economics (SC-GTEG), the Director of WTO Trade Policy Review Center, and the Deputy Chairman of the China Association of Trade in Services. He earned an LL.M. in IP (WIPO-ILO-Turin University) in 2011. In 2000, he was awarded a doctoral degree in Industrial Economics at Shanghai University of Finance and Economics. He was a visiting scholar at the WTO Secretariat, Harvard University, University of Lausanne, and Georgetown University. Currently, he is a Ph.D. candidate in International Economic Law at Maastricht University. He has been appointed as a WIPO arbitrator, UNCTAD Virtual Institute coordinator, Asia-Pacific Research, Training Network on Trade (ARTNeT) focal point, and many other academic organizations. He may be contacted at: wtochair@163.com

Zhou Chen is an Assistant Professor of International Environment Law at the Law School of Xiamen University, China. She is also a part-time Editor of Journal of Environmental Law Review and Chief Secretary in International Environmental Law Commission of China Environmental Law Association. Zhou Chen received her LL.M. from Research Institute of Environmental Law (RIEL) at Wuhan University (China). Then, she had pursued Ph.D. in climate change law from Tilburg University, the Netherlands, with scholarship fund of China Scholarship Council (CSC). Her research areas are sustainable development goals and international law, climate change law, Chinese environmental laws and public interest litigation. She may be contacted at: czhou@xmu.edu.cn

Elham Aminzadeh is an Associate Professor of International Law at the Faculty of Law and Political Sciences of University of Tehran, Iran. Dr. Aminzadeh is presently serving as the Head of Energy Law Institute of University of Tehran. Dr. Aminzadeh has received her LL.B. and LL.M. from Shahid Beheshti University (Iran) and her Ph.D. in international law from University of Glasgow, Scotland. She has lectured and published books and papers on the law of state responsibilities, the law of international organizations, dispute settlement law, the international institutions of human rights, citizenship rights, international and comparative energy law, energy security law, international space law, international law of waters, and the law of shared natural resources. She may be contacted at: eaminzadeh@ut.ac.ir

Nasser Khodaparast is currently an attorney (member of Iranian Central Bar Association) and legal advisor at National Iranian Oil Company (NIOC). He teaches at universities in Iran. Dr. khodaparast received his LL.B. from Qom University (Iran) and LL.M (International Law) and Ph.D. (Oil & Gas Law) from the University of Tehran. Dr. Khodaparast has published books and papers on international law and energy law in domestic and international journals. His areas of expertise are oil & gas law, international sustainable development law, energy security, international economic sanctions and international trade law. He may be contacted at: N.Khodaparast@nioc.ir

Pinghua Sun is Professor at China University of Political Science and Law. He earned a Ph.D. in Human Rights Law at CUPL. He was a visiting scholar at the University of Exeter and has been invited to deliver speeches at dozens of European, American and Chinese universities. Dr. Sun has completed three projects of the National Social Science Fund, including two of China Academic Translation Projects. He may be contacted at: fadaphsun@aliyun.com

Jaemin Lee is currently Professor of Law at Seoul National University School of Law. Dr. Lee went to Seoul National University (LL.B./LL.M./Ph.D.), Georgetown University (LL.M.) and Boston College Law School (J.D.). Upon graduating from Seoul National University's College of Law in 1992, he joined the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Republic of Korea as a career diplomat. Dr. Lee served as Deputy Director of the Treaties Division and the North American Trade Division of the Foreign Ministry. Between 2001 and 2005, he practiced law at Willkie Farr & Gallagher LLP (Washington, D.C. office) as an associate attorney of the firm's international trade group. Professor Lee is teaching international trade law and public international law at Seoul National University. He may be contacted at: jaemin@snu.ac.kr

Binwu Qin is an Associate Professor of Law in Xiangtan University Law School and Research Staff of Collaborative Innovation Center for Rule of Law in Hunan and Governance of Regional Society. Professor Qin earned his LL.B. from Lanzhou University of Finance and Economics and LL.M. from Xiangtan University, and his Juris Doctor from St. Thomas University of United States. Professor Qin focuses on American Law, International Trade Law and Transnational Litigation. He published several books and articles in Chinese and international journals. Qin is a member of New York and Florida Bar. He is also an attorney in Mainland China. He may be contacted at: 1877992620@qq.com

Rajesh Sharma is currently teaching as a Senior Lecturer at RMIT University, Melbourne, Australia. He is an Honorary Professor at Xiangtan University and an Adjunct Professor at Academy of International Dispute Resolution and Professional Negotiation (AIDRN). Dr. Sharma received his LL.B. from Delhi University, Master of Business Law from Monash University, M.Phil. from City University of Hong Kong and Ph.D. from Chinese University of Political Science and Law, Beijing. He is the first Indian to receive Ph.D. in law from China. His research interests include international trade, investment law and policy and alternative dispute resolution. He may be contacted at Rajesh.Sharma@rmit.edu.au

Md. Monjur Hasan is a Ph.D. candidate at the School of Law of Ocean University of China (OUC). The field of his research is maritime dispute under international law of the sea. He is a former lecturer of law at Gono University and adjunct faculty at Bangladesh University, Dhaka, Bangladesh. He is also an enrolled legal practitioner of Bangladesh Bar Council. He received his LL.B. (Honors) and LL.M. degree from the University of Rajshahi, Bangladesh. He has published academic papers on international law and human rights law in various renowned international journals. He may be contacted at: hasan.ouc16@yahoo.com

Azamat Zhanseitov is a lecturer of finance at the Karaganda State University named after academician Y.A. Buketov. Azamat obtained his Master's degree (Development Economics and Policy) from the University of Manchester in 2017. He has published over 10 academic articles in international and domestic journals, and other publications. His main research interests cover public international financial law, finance, public policy, and international business transaction. He may be contacted at: azamat.zhanseitov@icloud.com