

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Jiancuo Qi is a Ph.D. candidate in maritime law as well as a fellow of the Maritime Law Research Center at Korea University. Mr. Qi's primary research interest lies in maritime safety and marine environment protection. Before commencing his doctoral research, Mr. Qi was involved in shipping management extensively, with plenty of specialized experiences in offshore sectors during his post at COSCO Shipping. He served as an offshore project supervisor monitoring the offshore installations and managing the fleets safety and security. Mr. Qi received a Bachelor in Navigation Science from the Dalian Maritime University (China) and earned Master in Maritime Law from the Swansea University (UK).

Pengfei Zhang is a dually qualified (UK and PRC) and experienced Master Mariner with management experience on ships and in port operations. He worked as a deputy CEO in a large shipping group, in charge of legal affairs and shipping business. In 2011-12, Professor Zhang was delegated to supervise the construction of a 48000DWT training ship for SMU, the largest training ship in the world. He is also a dually qualified (PRC and UK) solicitor, practicing maritime law in Shanghai Allbrights Law Office since 2008. He is particularly specializing in shipbuilding and financing, ship collision and SNP disputes. He completed his Ph.D. in Greenwich Maritime Institute (GMI) at the University of Greenwich. Now, he is a professor in law at Dalian Maritime University and Managing Director of Maritime China Consultancy Ltd. Over the past years, Professor Zhang has published over 80 research articles, books, and book chapters. <http://law.dlmu.edu.cn/info/1209/2790.htm>. He may be contacted at: shippinglaw@163.com.

Ngo Huu Phuoc currently is the Head of Public International Law Division at Faculty of International Law at Ho Chi Minh City University of Law. Professor Ngo Huu Phuoc got his Bachelor of Law, Master of Law and Ph.D. in Law at Ho Chi Minh City University of Law in 1998, 2004 and 2012, respectively. Since 1998, he has been teaching Public International Law at the same university. His research interests include general international law and international law of the sea, international law on human rights, international dispute settlement and mutual legal assistance. He has conducted several in-depth academic research projects and published numerous articles on international law at specialized journals.

Hae Kyung Kim is an associate professor at College of Risk Management, Nihon University, Japan. She is also a lecturer of the Law in Japan Program at Meiji University School of Law. Before joining Nihon University, she held faculty positions at the School of Pacific and Asian Studies of the University of Hawaii and the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences of George Washington University, US. She received her Ph.D. and M.A. in International Studies at Waseda University. Her current research examines how the control of terrorism influences international financial transaction in Japan, South Korea and the US. She is the author of A Study on the Preventive Measures against Terrorism: The Present State of International Law and the Proposal for the Future (Waseda University Press, 2011). The author may be contacted at: ginakim.us@gmail.com.

Mujeeb Emami is a Ph.D. candidate in International Law at Zhongnan University of Economics and Law. He obtained LL.B. (Law and Political Science) from Tabesh University and LL.M. (International Law) from Zhongnan University of Economics and Law. His main research interests include international investment law and international commercial arbitration. He may be contacted at: mujeebemami@gmail.com

Rehna Gul is a Ph.D. candidate in International Law at Zhongnan University of Economics and Law. She obtained her LL.B. and LL.M. from Hazara University. Her main research interests include foreign investment law and international trade law. She may be contacted at: rehnagul786@yahoo.com

Xinxiang Shi is a lecturer in public international law at the Dalian Maritime University School of Law (China). He obtained a Ph.D. from the School of Law at the University of Edinburgh in November 2018. His doctoral research focused on immunities of States and their officials in international law. He is generally interested in international criminal law and international law of the sea.

Xiaou Zheng is an assistant professor in public international law at Xiamen University School of Law (China). She obtained her Ph.D. from the School of Law at the University of Edinburgh in February 2020. Her doctoral research focused on the interaction between international biodiversity law and human rights law. She is generally interested in the international environmental law and its increasing interaction with other branches of international law.

Roman Dremluiga is an associate professor of international law at the Far Eastern Federal University School of Law (Vladivostok, Russia). He is also Vice Dean for development at the Far Eastern Federal University School of Law. His research area is mostly concentrated around law of the sea in common and legal regime of Arctic Ocean particularly. The first interest in legal research was devoted to cyber law and cyber-crimes which were the theme of his Ph.D. thesis. He was working in the Far Eastern Federal University from 2003. He has specialist degree (Russian former analog of Master degree) in computer science and applied mathematics.

Chandaphan Suwijak graduated from Mae Fah Luang University School of Law in Chiang Rai, Thailand in 2006. As an outstanding student, he was given a full scholarship from Mae Fah Luang University to study for a master's degree in private and business law at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok, Thailand. After graduation in 2010, Chandaphan began working as a law lecturer at Mae Fah Luang University's School of Law. In 2016, he was awarded a scholarship from the Chinese Scholarship Council (CSC) for Ph.D. research at the Beijing Institute of Technology's School of Law. He plans to continue to teach law upon completion of his studies.

Yuji Hosaka is emeritus professor of political science and the Head of the Dokdo Research Institute at Sejong University, Seoul, Korea. He graduated from the University of Tokyo (B.A.) and Korea University (Ph.D.). Professor Hosaka currently teaches the history between Korea and Japan, Dokdo issues from the historical viewpoints. His main research focuses on historical issues between Korea and Japan such as the Dokdo territorial issue, the so-called Korean ‘comfort women’ during Japanese occupation, and the constitutional amendment. His notable works include The New pro-Japanese Group (2020), The Documents of Evidence for Sex Slave Problem by Japan-Vol.1 (2018), Dokdo, 1,500 years’ History (2016), The Textbook of Dokdo in the Republic of Korea (2012), The Study of Joseon Seonbi and Japanese Samurai (2008), etc. He may be contacted at: hosaka@sejong.ac.kr.

Kuangran Li is a Ph.D. candidate at Shanghai Jiao Tong University Law School. He went to East China University of Political Science and Law (LL.B. in international economic law), McGill University (LL.M. in comparative law) and Boston University (LL.M. in American law). His research focuses on international investment law and corporate governance. He may be contacted at: kr.lee@sjtu.edu.cn.

Wei Shen is KoGuan Distinguished Professor of Law at Shanghai Jiao Tong University Law School. Professor Shen got Ph.D. (LSE), LL.M. (Cantab), LL.M. (U. Michigan), and LL.M. & LL.B. (ECUPL). He joined the New York Bar and was practicing law for a decade, mostly in Hong Kong, on foreign direct investment, private equity and M&A. His main research interests include financial regulation, corporate governance, international investment law and commercial arbitration. He has published more than 200 articles in Chinese and English journals. Professor Shen has authored many books including Chinese Business Law-Narrative and Commentary (Wolters Kluwer 2016) and edited book Private Law in China and Taiwan-A Law and Economics Approach (2016). His article was cited by the Supreme Court of Singapore. He is an arbitrator with London Court of International Arbitration, Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre, Singapore International Arbitration Centre, Korean Commercial Arbitration Board (International), Shanghai International Arbitration Centre, Shanghai Arbitration

Commission, China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission, Shenzhen International Court of Arbitration, among others.

Mohd Hazmi Mohd Rusli is a senior lecturer at the Faculty of Syariah and Law at Universiti Sains Islam Malaysia (USIM). He has been appointed as a visiting professor at a number of universities within the Asia-Pacific region such as the Far Eastern Federal University School of Law (Vladivostok, Russia), Xiamen University's South China Sea Institute (China), and the Universitas Brawijaya Faculty of Law (Indonesia). He has been invited as keynote and plenary speaker in conferences all over the world including the United States, Indonesia, Russia, Malaysia and the Philippines. He is also a Lieutenant Commander of the Royal Malaysian Navy Volunteer Reserve Team. His area of interest is law of the sea and public international law. He could be contacted at: hazmirusli@usim.edu.my.