

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Chao Wang (Harry) is a Professor of Law at the University of Macau, where he also serves as assistant dean for external affairs. He received Ph.D. in Law, LL.M. and M.A. (Asia Pacific Policy Studies) from the University of British Columbia (UBC), where he also taught courses as a sessional lecturer at Allard School of Law. Dr. Wang is an editor of the Chinese Journal of International Law (CJIL), and published with CJIL, Asia-Pacific Law Review, Journal of Intellectual Property Law & Practice, and Chinese Journal of Comparative Law. Professor Wang serves on the panel of several major arbitral bodies in China, including the Shanghai International Arbitration Center and Shenzhen Court of International Arbitration. He may be contacted at: chaowang@um.edu.mo.

Thi Trang Ngo is the Vice Dean of the International Law Faculty at the Diplomatic Academy of Vietnam (DAV), Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Vietnam. From 2020 to 2023, she served as Second Secretary at the Political Section of the Embassy of the S.R. of Viet Nam in the Republic of Indonesia. Her research focuses on International Trade Law, Public International Law, International Institutional Law, and International Humanitarian Law. Dr. Ngo is the co-author of a Public International Law textbook and several reference books on international law, as well as the principal author of numerous articles published in well-known legal journals. Trang was awarded a Master's degree in International Law and Economics (MILE, magna cum laude) from the World Trade Institute, University of Bern, Switzerland, and the Doctor of Law (LL.D.) degree from the Graduate School of Law, Nagoya University, Japan. She may be contacted at trangnt@dav.edu.vn.

Youyou Jiang is a lecturer at the School of Law and Politics, Nanjing Tech University, China. She received her Ph.D. in International Law from Nanjing University. She has published articles mainly in various fields, including conflicts of law. Dr. Jiang has led one research project of the Youth Programme of the National Social Science Foundation of China. Her main research area is International Private Law. She may be contacted at: jyy@njtech.edu.cn.

Suwijak Chandaphan is a Lecturer in Law at the School of Law, Mae Fah Luang University, Thailand. He obtained a Ph.D. in Legal Economics from the School of Law, Beijing Institute of Technology (BIT), China, and an LL.M. in Private and Business Law from Chulalongkorn University, Thailand. His research focuses on International Space Law, the law on the New Space Economy, and the governance of emerging space technologies. Dr. Chandaphan serves as a member of Thailand's National Working Group on Coordination and Determination of Roles related to the United Nations Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (UNCOPUOS). He is also a member of the International Institute of Space Law (IISL) and the APSCO Space Law Alliance (ASLA). He may be contacted at: suwijak.cha@mfu.ac.th.

P.J. Blount is an Assistant Professor of Space Law at Durham University and a Visiting Scholar at Mae Fah Luang University in Thailand. He holds a Ph.D. in Global Affairs from Rutgers University, an LL.M. in Air and Space Law from King's College London, a J.D. from the University of Mississippi, and a B.A./A.B.J. from the University of Georgia. His research focuses on International Space Law, with particular emphasis on space security, cyberspace governance, and space traffic management. He has testified before the US House of Representatives' Subcommittee on Space and is the author of Reprogramming the World: Cyberspace and the Geography of Global Order (e-International Relations Press, 2019). Dr. Blount serves as Executive Secretary of the International Institute of Space Law (IISL) and is a licensed attorney in the State of Georgia, US. He may be contacted at: percy.blount@durham.ac.uk.

Ran Guo is a Professor of International Law at the School of Law, Shanghai Maritime University, China. He was a Visiting Fellow at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law and Wolfson College (2016–17), University of Cambridge, UK, and a Fulbright Visiting Scholar (2007–08) at Hampden-Sydney College, US. Dr. Guo was awarded a B.A. (Henan Normal U.), an M.A. (Tianjin Foreign Studies U.), and a Ph.D. in International Law (Wuhan U.). He has been a member of the Chinese Bar Association since 2009 and a Pro Bono Arbitrator of the Maritime Silk Road Chamber of International Arbitration Promotion since 2025. He may be contacted at: guoran@shmtu.edu.cn.

Yanlin Zhou is a Ph.D. candidate at the School of International Law of East China University of Political Science and Law, Shanghai, China. She holds an LL.M. in International Law from Shanghai Maritime University, China, and an LL.B. from Nanchang University of Science and Technology in Jiangxi Province, China. Her research interests include the International Law of the Sea and International Environmental Law. She may be contacted at: laoyangzi1998@163.com.

Sang-il Lee holds degrees in both engineering and law, including a Ph.D. in Maritime Law. From 1990 to 2003, he worked as a Marine Engineer and Chief Engineer at HMM, gaining extensive practical experience. He then served as an Instructor at HMM from 2003 to 2005. Since 2006, he has been a Professor at Korea Maritime & Ocean University (KMOU), where he also served as Chief Engineer of the university's training ship. He currently holds several leadership positions, including Vice President of the Korean Institute of Maritime Law, Public Legal Advisor, Head of Legislative Affairs at Maritime Cluster Networking in Korea, and Director of the Seafarer Research Center at KMOU. He may be contacted at: silee@kmou.ac.kr.

Song-yi Yi holds a Bachelor's degree in Marine Engineering and Education. She served in the Republic of Korea Navy for seven years, holding various engineering officer positions both ashore and at sea. Song-yi has a Master's degree in Maritime Safety and Environmental Administration from the World Maritime University (WMU) in Sweden, and is currently completing a Ph.D. in Maritime Policy at Korea Maritime and Ocean University (KMOU). Following an internship at the International Maritime Organization (IMO), she held a research position at the Korea Maritime Transportation Safety Authority (KOMSA) and is currently working as an Associate Instructor at the Korea Institute of Maritime and Fisheries Technology (KIMFT). Her main responsibilities include attending the IMO meetings related to seafarers as a member of the Republic of Korea delegation and promoting Korea's ODA (Official Development Assistance) projects aimed at enhancing seafarer capacity. She may be contacted at: yisongyi@seaman.or.kr.

Yuji Hosaka is emeritus professor and the Director of the Dokdo Research Institute at Sejong University, Seoul, Korea. He graduated from the University of Tokyo (B.A.) and Korea University (Ph.D.). Professor Hosaka's main research focuses on historical issues between Korea and Japan such as the legal status of Dokdo islands, the so-called Korean "comfort women" during Japanese occupation, and the constitutional amendment. His notable works include The New pro-Japanese Group (2020), The Documents of Evidence for Sex Slave Problem by Japan-Vol.1 (2018), Dokdo, 1,500 years' History (2016), The Textbook of Dokdo in the Republic of Korea (2012), The Study of Joseon Seonbi and Japanese Samurai (2008), etc. He may be contacted at: hosaka@sejong.ac.kr.

Asghar Salih Shwan is a Ph.D. candidate in International Law at Near East University (North Cyprus), Turkey. He holds an LL.B. from Salahaddin University in Erbil and an LL.M. from Near East University. His research areas include International Energy Law, Environmental Law, and Human Rights. He has participated in several academic workshops and seminars focusing on international legal frameworks for energy governance. He may be contacted at: 20214677@std.neu.edu.tr.

Ahmed M. Ali is an Assistant Professor in the Department of International Law at Near East University (North Cyprus), Turkey. He earned his LL.B., LL.M., and Ph.D. in Public Law from the University of Mosul, Iraq. His academic interests focus on Public International Law, Human Rights Law, and Comparative Legal Systems. Dr. Ali has been actively engaged in research and teaching at Near East University and contributes to scholarly discussions on international legal reforms. He may be contacted at ahmed.ali@neu.edu.tr.

Kavar Mohammed Mousa is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Business Administration, Near East University (North Cyprus), Turkey. He holds an LL.M. and a Ph.D. from Near East University and a B.A. in Business Management from Nawroz University, Iraq. His research interests include Strategic Management, Corporate Governance, Compliance Systems, and the role of Energy Law in Sustainable Development. Dr. Mousa has published and reviewed several articles in international journals and conferences. He may be contacted at kawarmohammed.mousa@neu.edu.tr.