

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Xuan Zhu is an Associate Professor at the Research Center for Pacific Island Countries, Liaocheng University. She holds a Ph.D. in Environmental Economics from the Renmin University of China. Her research focuses on international ocean governance, the blue economy, and island studies. Selected publications include: APEC Marine Sustainable Development Report III (2024); APEC Marine Sustainable Development Report II: Supporting Implementation of SDG 14 and Related Goals in APEC (2019); China's National SOC (States of Ocean and Coasts) Report (2018); and Lessons from Initiation to Implementation of ICM Programs in Xiamen: Key Drivers and Enabling Environment for Achieving Social, Environmental, and Economic Sustainability (2018).

Xidi Chen is an Assistant Professor at the China Institute for Marine Affairs under the Ministry of Natural Resources. He got a Ph.D. in International Law from Tsinghua University. Dr. Chen's research focuses on public international law and the law of the sea, with a particular interest in inter-state dispute settlement. He has participated as an official delegate in multiple negotiations, including those on the BBNJ Agreement, the International Seabed Authority, and the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission. He has completed a number of significant commissioned research projects publishing over 30 papers in relevant fields.

Wei Shen is the KoGuan Distinguished Professor of Law at the Shanghai Jiao Tong University Law School. He earned his Ph.D. (LSE), LL.M. (Cantab), LL.M. (Michigan), and LL.M. & LL.B. (ECUPL). He has published widely in Chinese and English journals, and his work has been cited by the Supreme Court of Singapore. He serves as an arbitrator for the London Court of International Arbitration, the Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre, and the Singapore International Arbitration Centre, among others. He is a visiting professor at the NYU School of Law, Michigan Law School, UPenn Carey Law, and the National University of Singapore, among others.

Hui Zhong is an Associate Professor at the School of Law, Xiamen University. She earned her Ph.D. in Law from the University of Queensland, Australia. Dr. Hui currently serves as a Council Member of the China Society of the Law of the Sea. Her primary research areas include the international law of the sea and cultural heritage law, with active research on the negotiation and implementation of the BBNJ Agreement. She has published articles in the Journal of East Asia and International Law, Coastal Management, the International Journal of Cultural Policy, China Information, the Hong Kong Law Journal, and Asian Perspectives. She has also authored an English monograph titled, China's Cultural Heritage and International Law. Professor Hui will be a visiting scholar at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law, University of Cambridge, starting in 2027.

Eric Yong Joong Lee is the President of the YIJUN Institute of International Law as well as a Professor of International Law at Dongguk University in Seoul, Korea. Dr. Lee obtained his A.B. in Political Science and M.P.A. in Public Policy from the University of Washington-Seattle and Seoul National University, respectively. He then pursued his LL.M. in international law at Leiden University and completed his Dr.iur. (Ph.D. in Law) under the supervision of Professor Peter Malanczuk at Erasmus University Rotterdam, the Netherlands. Professor Lee, an international law analyst grounded in international relations, is an expert in global security, nuclear disarmament, and the law of the sea. He serves as the Editor of Springer's book series, International Law in Asia, as well as Springer's Handbook on International Law in Asia. His current academic interests focus on legal action concerning the discharge of radioactive wastewater. He may be contacted at: grotian@hotmail.com.

Sima Nzang Julio Cesar Obiang is a Ph.D. candidate in Commercial Law and a Fellow Research Assistant at the Belt and Road Business Environment Institute, Northwest University of Political Science and Law in Xi'an, China. He holds an LL.M. in International Law and a B.A. in International Economics and Trade from Northwest University. One of his recent publications is: Strategic Adaptation or Development Diplomacy? Chinese Green Investment and Institutional Constraints in Equatorial Guinea's Energy Transition. His current research focuses on the China International Commercial Court, transnational enforceability, legal fragmentation, and global economic governance. He successfully completed an internship at the Astana International Financial Center (AIFC) Court and the AIFC International Arbitration Center on April 20–24, 2026. Fluent in Spanish, English, and Mandarin Chinese, he combines academic research with practical experience in international trade, contract negotiation, and cross-cultural mediation. He may be contacted at: 202450810301@stu.nwupl.edu.cn.

Yingying Wang is a Professor and Doctoral Supervisor at the School of Civil and Commercial Law, Northwest University of Political Science and Law. She serves as the Director of the Office of International Exchange and Cooperation, the Dean of the International Education School, and the Director of the Belt and Road Business Environment Research Institute. Professor Wang holds doctoral degrees in Civil and Commercial Law from Xiamen University and in Roman and Comparative Law from the University of Rome Tor Vergata, Italy. She is a Standing Director and Vice President of several national and provincial legal associations in China, specializing in civil, commercial, economic, and banking law. Professor Wang also serves as an arbitrator for the Beijing Arbitration Commission and the Xi'an Arbitration Commission. She has led more than ten national and provincial research projects, published over thirty academic articles, authored several books, and received multiple awards for outstanding achievements in legal research and social sciences. She may be contacted at: wang-yingying@126.com.

Nehaluddin Ahmad is a Senior Professor of Law at Sultan Sharif Ali Islamic University (UNISSA), Brunei Darussalam. He is an internationally recognized legal scholar with over four decades of academic and professional experience across India, Tanzania, Malaysia, Singapore, and Brunei Darussalam. He has authored more than 300 research publications in international law, comparative jurisprudence, constitutional law, and contemporary legal studies. According to the AD Scientific Index (2025–26), he is ranked 7th globally in Law and Legal Studies. His scholarship has been cited by courts and institutions in Malaysia, Australia, and the European Parliament's TAX3 Committee, contributing significantly to international academic and policy discourse. He received the Teacher Excellence Award in 2024 from His Majesty the Sultan and Yang Di-Pertuan of Brunei Darussalam, followed by the Research Excellence Award in 2025. He holds an LL.D. from Meerut University, India, and an LL.M. from the University of Strathclyde, Glasgow, UK. Contact: ahmadnehal@yahoo.com.

Faizan Mustafa is the Vice-Chancellor of Chanakya National Law University in Patna, India. He is a distinguished legal scholar with extensive teaching, research, administrative, and institutional leadership experience in Indian legal education. He previously served as the Vice-Chancellor of NALSAR University of Law, Hyderabad, and the founding Vice-Chancellor of National Law University Odisha. He has also held senior academic and administrative positions, including Dean of the Faculty of Law at Aligarh Muslim University; Registrar at Aligarh Muslim University; Founder Director of the KIIT Law School; and Advisor at the National Law School and Judicial Academy, Assam. His areas of interest include constitutional law, intellectual property rights, human rights law, Islamic law, and legal education. He holds a Ph.D. in Copyright Law, an LL.M. (Gold Medalist), an LL.B., and a B.A. (Hons.) in History from Aligarh Muslim University, India. He may be contacted at: faizan.mustafa@gmail.com.

Faizah Rahim is a Tutor, Research Assistant, and Ph.D. candidate in Law at Sultan Sharif Ali Islamic University (UNISSA), Brunei Darussalam. She holds an LL.M. in International Law and a double degree in LL.B. and Bachelor of Shariah Law (BSL), all from UNISSA. Her research focuses on public international law, particularly international humanitarian law, conflict resolution, international criminal law, and global governance. She is an editor of Understanding the Israel-Palestine Conflict and has authored selected chapters in the volume. She has published on contemporary legal issues, including cyberwarfare, international criminal law, and legal and policy approaches to obesity. Her current research examines international mechanisms for resolving international armed conflicts, with particular attention to the Israel-Palestine conflict. She may be contacted at: faizahrahim98@gmail.com.

Soojin Nam is an Associate Professor at Hankuk University of Foreign Studies (HUFS) in Seoul, Korea. Her research interests focus on international economic law and competition law. Prior to joining the faculty at HUFS, she practiced at law firms in New York and Seoul, advising Fortune 500 companies on various matters. She holds an A.B. in Social Studies from Harvard College, an M.A. in European Affairs from the Institut d'Études Politiques de Paris ("Sciences Po"), and a J.D. from Harvard Law School. From August 2023 to August 2024, she was a Visiting Scholar in Residence at the USC Gould School of Law.

Jamie Yoonsoo Kim is an Assistant Professor of Law in the Department of International Economics and Law at Hankuk University of Foreign Studies in Seoul, Korea. She teaches courses in international and transnational business law, including WTO law and the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods (CISG). Her academic interests include international commercial law and comparative legal studies. Professor Kim received her B.A. from Cornell University and her J.D. from the Pennsylvania State University School of Law. She may be contacted at: jamielim@hufs.ac.kr.

Xinrong Tan is a Ph.D. candidate at the School of International Law, Zhongnan University of Economics and Law (ZUEL) in Wuhan, China. She holds an LL.M. in International Law from ZUEL and an LL.B. from the Northwest University of Political Science and Law (NWUPL), China. Her research interests focus on public international law and global governance. She may be contacted at: xinrong2073@163.com.

Phillip Y. Freiberg is a Lecturer at the International College of Digital Innovation, Chiang Mai University, Thailand. He holds a Ph.D. in Public Administration from the National Institute of Development Administration (NIDA) in Bangkok, with a concentration in Development Administration. His dissertation examined trust in mainstream media (MSM). He also earned an M.A. in Media Communications and an M.A. in International Relations from Webster University, Bangkok (both with distinction), an MBA in Finance from the Webster Graduate School at Regent's University London, and a B.A. in International Studies from Brigham Young University, with a concentration in French Studies. His research focuses on digital governance, internet censorship, AI in education, and media trust, particularly in the Russian context. Dr. Freiberg has presented at numerous international conferences and published on topics including digital textbooks for sustainable education and the implementation of AI in education. He may be contacted at: phillip.freiberg@cmu.ac.th.

Michael Harris is a Lecturer in technology, business, and innovation at the International College of Digital Innovation (ICDI), Chiang Mai University, Thailand. He holds a Ph.D. in Politics and a B.A. (Hons) in Politics (First Class) from the University of Sheffield, UK. Dr. Harris is an accomplished author and policy researcher with extensive experience leading research and innovation programs in the UK, including roles at the Royal Town Planning Institute (RTPI), the National Endowment for Science, Technology and the Arts (Nesta), and the New Economics Foundation (NEF). He has written several nonfiction books on future global trends as well as economic, environmental, and technological challenges and their implications for the 21st century. These include Come With Me If You Want To Live: The Future as Foretold in Classic Sci-Fi Films (Lexington Books), Stay Alive: Surviving Capitalism's Coming Hunger Games (Zero Books), Welcome to the Rebellion: A New Hope in Radical Politics (Zero Books), and A Future for Planning (Routledge). He may be contacted at: drmichaeljharris@gmail.com.

Parot Ratnapinda is a Lecturer at the International College of Digital Innovation, Chiang Mai University, Thailand. He received his Ph.D. and M.Sc. in Information Science from the University of Pittsburgh, US, and his Bachelor's Degree in Information Engineering from King Mongkut's Institute of Technology Ladkrabang, Thailand. His research interests include artificial intelligence, data science, decision support systems, game design, and the Internet of Things. Dr. Ratnapinda has published in international conferences on topics such as database systems for agriculture, smart notification systems, and the use of information technology for tourism promotion. He has secured multiple research grants from the National Research Council of Thailand (NRCT) and Maejo University. Previously, he served as a Lecturer at Maejo University and as a network engineer. He may be contacted at: parot.r@cmu.ac.th.

Minh Tuan Nguyen is an Associate Professor and Acting Dean of the Faculty of Theory and History of State and Law at the University of Law, Vietnam National University, Hanoi. He earned his Doctorate in Public Law from Saarland University, Germany, in 2012, and currently serves as one of the university's alumni ambassadors. His research focuses on legal theory, legal history, legal reasoning, comparative law, legal sociology, constitutional law, and public law. He has published extensively in Vietnamese, English, and German, and has contributed to academic discussions on legal reform, state governance, digital transformation, and the development of legal education in Vietnam. He may be contacted at: tuannm@vnu.edu.vn.

Do Thi Bao Yen is currently a doctoral candidate in the Theory and History of State and Law at the University of Law, Vietnam National University, Hanoi. She completed her undergraduate and master's degrees in the Russian Federation, obtaining her Master's degree from the Faculty of Law at the State University of Management in Moscow. Her research focuses on the theory and history of state and law, administrative law, legal technique, and legislative drafting. Ms. Yen is the sole author of numerous articles published in reputable law journals in Vietnam and abroad. She may be contacted at: yendtb1991@gmail.com.

Surakhbayar Galsan is a Ph.D. candidate at the School of Law, National University of Mongolia. He holds an LL.B. from the National University of Mongolia and an LL.M. from the Cardozo School of Law, Yeshiva University, where he studied as a Dean's Merit Scholar. His research focuses on natural resource governance, mining law, constitutional resource sovereignty, climate change, ESG, critical minerals governance, and energy-transition policy. Mr. Galsan is a co-founder of several research, policy, sustainability, and business-development institutions supporting Mongolia's long-term development. His work seeks to advance minerals law as a distinct field of legal study. He has advised government institutions, international organizations, and private-sector stakeholders on resource governance, sustainable development, and policy reform in Mongolia. He may be contacted at: gсурakhbayar@gmail.com.

Yiwei Liu is a Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of History at Sun Yat-sen University, China. He holds a Ph.D. in International Politics from Sun Yat-sen University and an M.A. from the University of Warwick. His research interests focus on the international politics of the Asia-Pacific, non-traditional security issues, and regional governance, with a particular focus on the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

He may be contacted at: liuyw235@mail.sysu.edu.cn.

Xingjun Liu is an Associate Professor in the School of Foreign Languages at Xizang Minzu University, China. He holds a Ph.D. in International Relations from Sun Yat-sen University. His research focuses on the international politics of South Asia and strategic studies. He serves as a Principal Investigator for a project funded by the National Social Science Foundation of China and is an active member of the Chinese Association for South Asian Studies.

He may be contacted at: liuxj07@126.com.

Milda Istiqomah is an Associate Professor in the Criminal Law Department, Faculty of Law, Universitas Brawijaya. She obtained her Bachelor of Law degree from Universitas Brawijaya, followed by a Master of Transnational Crime Prevention from the University of Wollongong, Australia, and a Ph.D. from the University of New South Wales, Australia.

Her research interests include terrorism, transnational crime, international criminal law, and human rights protection. She has published extensively in reputable, Scopus-indexed journals and is actively engaged as a speaker at international conferences and in cross-border collaborative projects on criminal justice and legal policy.

Mohd Hazmi Mohd Rusli is an Associate Professor and lecturer at the Faculty of Syariah and Law, Universiti Sains Islam Malaysia (USIM). He obtained his Ph.D. from the University of Wollongong, Australia, in 2012. He has been appointed as a visiting professor/research fellow at universities worldwide, namely the MGIMO – Moscow State Institute of International Relations (2025), Xiamen University, China (2019), Universitas Brawijaya, Indonesia (2018, 2021 & 2023), Universitas Gadjah Mada (2025), and the Australian National University, Canberra (2022). He has written numerous articles published in high-impact journals and popular magazines/newspapers on the law of the sea, maritime policy, and public international law.

Dhiana Puspitawati is a Professor of the Law of the Sea in the Department of International Law, Faculty of Law, Universitas Brawijaya. She earned her Bachelor of Law degree from the Faculty of Law, Universitas Airlangga. She subsequently obtained her LL.M. from Monash University and her Ph.D. from the University of Queensland, Australia. In addition, she was awarded a Diploma in Shipping BI Norway from Widya Mandala Catholic University. Her research interests focus on the law of the sea and maritime law. She has actively engaged in research and scholarly publications in both nationally accredited journals indexed by SINTA and internationally reputable journals indexed in SCOPUS. Professor Puspitawati has contributed to the writing of textbooks and monographs in the field of the international law of the sea.

Prija Djatmika is a Professor of Criminal Law in the Department of Criminal Law, Faculty of Law, Universitas Brawijaya. He obtained his LL.B. and LL.M. from Universitas Airlangga and then earned his Doctorate in Law from Universitas Brawijaya. His academic and research interests primarily focus on criminal law, particularly corruption-related offenses. In addition to his teaching and research activities, he has actively contributed to scholarly publications in both nationally accredited journals indexed in SINTA and internationally reputable journals indexed in SCOPUS.

Stuart Malawer holds a Ph.D. from the Dept. of International Relations at the University of Pennsylvania. He has a J.D. from the Cornell Law School and a Diploma from The Hague Academy of International Law (Research Centre). He also studied at the Harvard Law School and St. Peter's College at Oxford University. Professor Malawer was a member of the Virginia Governor's trade missions to China, India, and Japan.

Dr. Malawer was awarded the Hardy Cross Dillard Award by the Virginia State Bar, in recognition of serving as Chairman of its International Practice Section and Special Editor of the Virginia Lawyer. Most recently, he published articles on the US-China trade litigation, Trump's trade policies, and cybersecurity. Recent books have included Trump and Trade - Policy and Law (2021), Global Trade and International Law (2012), US National Security Law (2009), and WTO Law, Litigation and Policy (2007). Professor Malawer served as the Director and Founder of the Graduate International Transactions Program at George Mason University (a masters' program in international affairs). He was subsequently named the Distinguished Service Professor of Law & International Trade, as well as the Director of the Oxford Trade Program. This program was held annually in partnership with St. Peter's College at Oxford and Geneva. The GMU Alumni Association named Professor Malawer the Distinguished Faculty Member of the Year. He was a gubernatorial appointee to the Virginia Economic Development Partnership and recently to the Virginia International Trade Committee. He may be contacted at: StuartMalawer@msn.com.